

Linear Reduction

A process where an art medium becomes the subject for another. Content is continuously refined and is not constrained by structure, reduction limits or perception.